Tom lives beside the station. He has many lists.

- Monday. I get up at six.
- I wash at quarter past six.
- Breakfast at seven. Two eggs.
- The café at half past seven. Table three.

- Tea without sugar. The office at quarter to nine.

His mother calls on Sunday evening.

- Tom, are you well? Are you eating?

- Yes. At seven, half past twelve and six.

- What are the people at work like?

- Friendly. The new neighbour works with us too.

- There's a cat at that neighbour's home.

- A cat? But you are afraid of cats!

- Only a little, Mum.

- Eat well. Sleep well. Do not be late.

- I'm never late.

It's Monday morning. The clock is not running. Tom is still sleeping.

- What time is it? Oh! Half past eight!

- There's no time for breakfast today.

- ▲ Where is Mr Without Sugar?

- It's ten past nine. Tom is not here!

- Hello. I know, I know. I'm late.

- The clock is not running. My list is at home.
- It's all right. Here is coffee. The meeting is on Thursday.
- That is right. Thank you very much.

Milo sits on Tom's desk.

- Why are you afraid of cats?
- There was a big black cat at Grandma's home.
- I was five years old. The cat was on my face!
- But Milo is grey. He's a good cat.
- All right, Milo. Sit here. Do not go on the computer!
- Is there a new list today?
- Yes. Three clocks. Do not be late. Milo is grey!

It's evening. There are three clocks on the table.
