

SCENE 31 • NUMBER 7

Vzemite dežnik

Tuesday, a bright, warm morning. You come down in a T-shirt. Ana stands at the door with an umbrella. "You must take it." Muri doesn't want to go out, and that means rain: the best forecast in town. Maja says Ana is always right. Almost always.

Translation

■ Good morning. Where are you going without an umbrella?

○ To work. It is lovely! Sunshine, twenty degrees.

■ Take your umbrella today.

○ But there are no clouds. No wind either!

■ Muri stays indoors. That means rain.

○ Muri is your weather forecast?

■ Exactly. He is almost always right.

○ Thank you. But I do not need an umbrella today.

Outside, Maja is putting the café tables out on the pavement.

▲ Good morning! It is hot today.

○ Yes. But Ana says: take your umbrella.

▲ Ana is always right. Almost always. Where is Muri?

○ He is at home today.

▲ Then you need an umbrella.

Muri sits on the windowsill, perfectly dry, looking at the sky.

Half past five. You come home soaked to the skin. Ana is already at the door with a towel.

○ You were right. It is raining. I am completely wet.

■ I can see that. Here is a towel.

○ Thank you. Tomorrow I will take the umbrella.

■ You do not need it tomorrow. There will be sunshine.

○ How do you know?

■ Muri.

You don't take it. At half past five you come home soaked, and she is at the door with a towel. "I know." Tomorrow: sun, says Muri. Next morning you take the umbrella, and the sun shines. Muri follows you all the way to the office.
