Translation

The phone rings. Anna, the friend from Hamburg, is calling.

■ Hi! How are you doing in Lindenfurt?

○ Anna! Pretty well, thanks. And you?

■ Well too. I have a new job in Berlin.

○ In Berlin? Then you are not so far away.

■ And what is your flat like?

Through the bathroom door: a yellow sofa next to the bathtub.

The phone lies on the table.

○ Small, but nice. And there is a yellow sofa in the bathroom.

■ In the bathroom? Why there?

○ That is a long story.

■ How do you like the town? Is it big?

○ No. Small and old, but very nice. It is by a river.

○ And there is a café below my flat. Every morning there is a different cake.

She laughs.

■ You and your cake!

- And your neighbours? Are they nice?
- Mrs Brandt is short, has glasses and simply knows everything.

■ Everything?

- Everything. Probably even your phone number.
- Greta has the café. She always says: eat something first!

■ And who else? Who else lives in the house?

- Jonas, a musician. He is tall and has brown eyes and black curly hair.

A memory of the old photo, face up on the carpet: a boy of ten with brown eyes and a mop of black curly hair.

- Black curly hair ... Wait a moment!

■ Hello? Are you still there?

- The boy in the photo! Sorry, Anna. I will call you later!

You put the phone down and look up at the ceiling. Upstairs, Jonas starts to play. Curly black hair... Is Jonas the boy in the photo?
