Translation

■ Good morning, Mrs Brandt. Where is the station?

○ The station? What are you planning?

■ Tomorrow I am going to the Great Lake with Mr Kühn. By train.

○ Yes, I know. I do not miss a thing.

- The station is a long way away. First go left, then straight on and right at the second street.

Greta comes out of the café with a tray and points one way.

Hilde, broom in hand on the steps, points the other way.

- ▲ A long way away? No. Right, then left at the corner. Very close!

- Mrs Brandt says the station is a long way away.

- ▲ Everything is a long way away for Hilde.

- I can hear you!

Jonas comes along the street with his trumpet case, yawning in the morning sun.

- Good night. Oh no, good morning.

- Jonas, where is the station?

- Straight on all the way. By the river, the Linde. Five minutes on foot.

- Three neighbours, three different routes.

- I mean the station with the trains. That is a long way away.

- ▲ Oh, I mean the bus station. That is just round the corner.

- And I mean the Old Station. I play there at the weekend.

- So to the station with the trains. Left first?

○ Exactly. And do not be late tomorrow!

All three are right. The town has a train station, a bus station, and the Old Station, which is now a jazz bar. Jonas plays there at weekends. You take Hilde's way, and around the corner stands the train station, small and old, with a big clock.
