Translation

The morning before the festival. Nika and the neighbour come to the shop.

■ Hello. Are you two going to the festival?

○ Yes! Jure plays tonight.

■ Little Jure? Come in, both of you. I have a story.

■ I have known him a long time. He was ten then.

- Have you two seen the photo? The window and trumpet?
- Yes! Funny hair!
- ▲ Did he live at number seven?
- Yes. With his parents. In your flat.
- ▲ I know. Jure's story.
- His parents worked a lot. Jure was alone.
- Where did the trumpet come from?
- Ana gave it to him. It was small and old.
- Grandma's trumpet?
- Yes. Why did she have it? I do not know.
- He played under my window every day.
- At first he could not play well. It was very loud!
- ▲ Did you listen every day?
- Yes. I worked here. Later he played well.
- Did he play at the festival too?
- Yes. For the first time. In the square with the band.
- Lots of people. He was afraid. He played a different song from the band!

■ Then it rained. People went home.

○ Jure too?

■ He wanted to. He was wet.

○ Where was Grandma?

■ In front of the stage. With an umbrella.

■ Jure played the same song again. Very well.

▲ What about the rain?

■ It stopped. People came back. They listened. Then they sang.

○ You too?

■ Of course. Ana too.

▲ Did his parents come too?

■ Late. They heard the last song. Then they bought a big trumpet for Jure.

○ What about the little one?

■ At Ana's home. Is it still there? Who knows?

○ Grandma knows. She knows everything!

▲ Will you come tonight?

■ Yes. I will sit beside her. With an umbrella!

☐ We will sing too!
