

SCENE 47 · NUMBER 7

Որտե՞ղ է տո՛ւնը

The capital: big, loud, grey. The interviewer wants to know everything: who you are, where you are from, which languages you speak, what you can do, why you came to the town, when you can start. On the train back, you read flat ads: thirty square metres, two hundred thousand drams a month.

Translation

■ Hello. I am Nare. Please introduce yourself.

○ I am Lena. I am from Germany. I am an engineer. I work in a small town now.

■ Do you like the town?

○ Yes. It is quiet. The people are nice.

She laughs.

■ What languages do you know?

○ German, English. And a little Armenian.

■ What can you do?

○ I design furniture. And I look after a cat.

■ A cat?

○ It is a long story.

■ Why did you come to that town?

○ For work. Now I stay for the people.

■ When can you start?

○ From July first. But I want to think.

She stands up and holds out her hand.

- All right. Reply by Friday.

Outside the office, a grey cat sits on a wall. It is not Mrru.

There is a grey cat outside. It is not Mrru.

- Flats in Yerevan are expensive. Two hundred thousand drams a month.
- And nobody here knows my name.

They offer you the job on the spot. Outside, a grey cat sits on a wall. It is not Unnl. And you notice that you want to go home, and that home now means number 7.
