Choosing a home: present, past and plans

The final scene combines the whole course: 여기에 살아요 states the current home, 여기에 살았어요 recalls living here, and 여기에 살 거예요 gives the plan. Time words and the final ending make the meaning clear.

결정했어요 says I decided. 안 갈 거예요 is a negative future plan, while 못 갔어요 reports past inability. Keep both the negative meaning and the time in mind.

Korean can omit a repeated subject, but a name or 저는 can make a contrast clear. Polite 요 endings are still appropriate between these friendly adults. The course does not require formal written style, reported speech or extended relative clauses.

지금 여기에서 살아요.

I live here now.

전에 여기에서 살았어요.

I lived here before.

앞으로 여기에서 살 거예요.

I will live here in future.

어제 결정했어요.

I decided yesterday.

서울에 안 갈 거예요.

I will not go to Seoul.

모두 제 이름을 알아요.

Everyone knows my name.
