Translation

*A Saturday morning in June. The market square is full of people.
You and Elif stop at the fish stall.*

- Good morning! Oh, number 7! You're here again.
- Good morning, Hasan Bey! I'd like some fish, please. For Tekir.
- For Tekir? Of course. His bill is very long already.
- ▲ Hasan Bey, have you known Tekir long?

■ A very long time. I've known him since he was a tiny kitten.

○ Tiny? Tekir was tiny?

■ Yes. Many years ago, one cold morning, he came here, to the market.

■ He was wet and hungry. And as small as my hand.

▲ And what did you do?

■ I gave him some fish. And that's how his bill started!

○ And why is his ear like that?

■ There was a big dog at the market. The dog bit the kitten's ear.

■ Since then Tekir hasn't liked dogs.

Kerim from the corner shop comes over with a box of apples.

● Good morning! Are you talking about Tekir? I was there too.

● People gave him fish and milk, but they didn't know whose he was.

○ And did he stay at the market?

● No. He liked us, but he was looking for a home. A real home.

● He followed me from the market, right across town.

● He looked at every house. Not that one. Not that one. Not that one.

● Then he saw a house with a green door.

○ Number 7!

● Yes. He sat down on the steps and waited.

That afternoon, in the courtyard of number 7. Ayşe sits on her bench in the sun, and you tell her what you have heard.

□ Yes, yes. I know everything. I was there.

□ That evening it was raining. I opened the door, and on the steps sat a little grey kitten.

□ I said to him: 'You're not my cat!'

○ And what did he do?

□ He just walked in. Like the boss.

▲ And where did he sleep?

□ In flat 3. That flat was empty then.

▲ Flat 3? My flat!

□ Yes. For a long time it was his flat.

○ Grandma, and who named him Tekir?

□ Me. He was so small and grey. I said, let your name be Tekir.

□ And the next morning he took his first key.

○ Whose key?

□ The key to flat 3. From my pocket.

▲ Flat 3? So... my key!

□ Yes. That's why he took your key on the first evening. It was his key.

Tekir walks across the courtyard and jumps onto the bench, right between you and Ayşe.

○ He isn't bad. He just loves that key!

○ If you stay here for ten years, he'll take ten of your keys!

▲ All right. Then I'll need lots of keys.

□ Would you like some tea? I'll tell you more.

▲ I'd love some! And you, Tekir? Would you like some fish?

Tekir says nothing. But he's already sitting at Ayşe's door.
