

SCENE 47 • NUMBER 7

Pokalbis

The capital: big, loud, grey. The interviewer wants to know everything: who you are, where you are from, which languages you speak, what you can do, why you came to the town, when you can start. On the train back, you read flat ads: thirty square metres, €700 a month.

Translation

Monday, ten o'clock. The capital is big, loud and grey. A glass office on the eighth floor.

- Good day. I'm Lucía Fernández. Please sit down.
- I'm Spanish, but I've lived here for ten years now. So we'll speak Lithuanian.
- Tell me about yourself. Where are you from? What do you do?
- I'm Lena Becker. I'm German, from Hamburg. I'm thirty.
- I'm an engineer. I work at a furniture company, in a small town by the river.
- Which languages do you speak?
- German, English and a little Lithuanian.
- Not a little. You speak well.
- And what can you do?
- I can design furniture. And I can look after a cat.

She laughs.

■ A cat?

○ It's a long story.

■ Why did you come to that little town?

○ For the job. But now... for the people.

■ When will you be able to start?

○ My trial period ends on the thirtieth of June.

She stands up and holds out her hand.

■ Excellent. The job is yours. Can you start on the first of July?

○ So soon? I need to think about it.

■ Of course. I'll wait for your answer until Friday.

Outside the office, a grey cat sits on a wall. It is not Micius.

○ Micius? No... Not Micius.

On the train back, you read flat ads on your phone.

○ 'Flat in the centre. Thirty square metres. Seven hundred euros a month.'

○ Seven hundred! And without a cat.

They offer you the job on the spot. Outside, a grey cat sits on a wall. It is not Micius. And you notice that you want to go home, and that home now means number 7.
