Translation

■ Good morning. May I come in?

○ Hello, Mrs Walker. Please come in.

She holds up a pen and a printed form.

■ Here is a form. For new neighbours.

○ A form? Already?

She reads out the whole form in one breath.

Now she speaks very, very slowly.

■ What's your name? Surname? Where are you from? Which languages do you speak?

○ Sorry. I don't understand. Slowly, please.

■ All right. What is your surname?

○ Becker.

■ How is it written?

○ B, E, C, K, E, R.

■ Once again. Slowly.

○ B ... E ... C ... K ... E ... R.

■ Where are you from?

○ From Hamburg. From Germany.

She's delighted, and talks even faster.

■ Which languages do you speak?

○ German and a little English.

■ English! Excellent!

○ But slowly, please. You speak very fast.

■ What do you do for work?

○ I work at a company. I'm an engineer.

■ Yes. I already know.

From her cardigan pocket she takes a small brass name plate for your letterbox.

■ Here is the sign for your letterbox.

○ Becker. Correct! You really know everything. So why the form?

She holds out a small brass name plate for your letterbox. Your surname is on it, already spelled right. The form under her arm is still empty.
