Translation

■ Good morning, Mrs Martín. Where is the station?

○ The station? Where are you going?

■ Tomorrow I am going to the Great Lake with Tomás. By train.

○ Yes, I already know. I never miss a thing.

○ It is far. First left, then straight on and the second street on the right.

*Clara comes out of the café with a tray and points one way.
Elvira, broom in hand on the steps, points the other way.*

▲ Far? No. Right and then left at the corner. It is close!

■ Mrs Martín says it is far.

▲ Everything is far for Elvira.

○ I can hear you!

Javier comes along the street with his trumpet case, yawning in the morning sun.

● Good night. No, good morning.

■ Javier, where is the station?

● Straight on. By the river. Five minutes on foot.

■ Three neighbours, three different routes.

○ I mean the train station. That one is far.

▲ Ah! I mean the bus station. It is around the corner.

● And I mean the Old Station. I play there at weekends.

■ To the train station, then. Left first?

○ Exactly. And do not be late tomorrow!

All three are right. The town has a train station, a bus station, and {@jazz-bar}, which is now a jazz bar. Javier plays there at weekends. You take Elvira's way, and around the corner stands the train station, small and old, with a big clock.
