A brand-new flat near the station. Monday, six o'clock in the morning. On the fridge door hangs a long list.

This is where Tommaso lives. Tommaso has a lot of lists.

A list for work, a list for the shop, and a list of lists.

■ Monday. At six I get up. At a quarter past six I have a shower.

■ At seven, breakfast: two eggs and bread.

■ At half past seven, the café, table three. Tea without sugar.

■ At a quarter to nine, the office. Never at nine!

Tommaso always gets up at six. On Monday, on Tuesday, on Wednesday... and even on Sunday.

Sunday evening. At seven o'clock exactly, Tommaso's phone rings.

Every Sunday at seven in the evening the phone rings. It's Tommaso's mother.

○ Good evening, Tommaso! How are you? Are you eating? Are you sleeping?

■ Yes, Mum. I eat at seven, at half past twelve and at six. I sleep from ten.

○ Dad and I get up at five. And your colleagues? What are they like?

■ They're nice. And I've got a new colleague, who lives in a house with a cat.

○ With a cat?! Tommaso, you're afraid of cats! Do you have a cat at the office?

■ Mum, I'm not afraid. Well... a little.

○ Eat, sleep and don't be late, Tommaso. Good night!

■ Mum, I'm never late.

That night, at three o'clock, the old clock on Tommaso's bedside table stops.

Monday. Six o'clock. But Tommaso doesn't get up. He's asleep.

- What time is it? My clock has stopped!

His phone says half past eight. Half past eight!

- No, no, no! I'm late!

Today Tommaso doesn't have a shower. He doesn't eat breakfast. He doesn't go to the café.

At the café at number 7, Chiara looks at the empty table by the window.

- ▲ It's already eight, and table three is empty. Where's our 'Tea without sugar'?

At the office. You are at your desk; the desk next to yours is empty.

- Ten past nine, and no Tommaso. That's a first!

The door flies open.

- Good morning, Tommaso! You're late!

- I know, I know. My clock has stopped. And my list is at home!

- What now? When's the meeting? What am I doing?

- Don't worry. Sit down, please. Here's your coffee.
- Today is Monday. The meeting is on Thursday, not today.
- That's true... Thank you. You're a good colleague.

Milo jumps onto Tommaso's desk and sits down right next to his keyboard.

- You're here too, Milo? Good morning.
- Tommaso, why are you afraid of cats?
- When I was little, every July I was in the countryside, at my grandmother's.
- There was a tomcat there. Big, black and very fierce.
- One night he was in my bed. On my face! I was five.
- On your face?! Oh dear...
- Since that night I've been afraid of cats. All cats.

Milo looks at Tommaso. Milo isn't fierce. He's just hungry.

- All right, all right. You can sit here. But don't sit on my computer!

That evening, at home, three new alarm clocks stand on the kitchen table.

In the evening Tommaso writes a new list.

- One: three clocks. Two: don't be late, Tommaso!

And three? Tommaso looks at the paper for a long time. Then he writes:

- Three: Milo isn't black, and he isn't fierce. He's grey.
