

SCENE 31 · NUMBER 7

เอาร่มไปด้วย

Tuesday, a bright, warm morning. You come down in a T-shirt. Grandma Somporn stands at the door with an umbrella. "You must take it." Suea doesn't want to go out, and that means rain: the best forecast in town. On says Grandma Somporn is always right. Almost always.

Translation

■ Good morning. Where are you going without an umbrella?

○ To work. But the weather is very nice. It's sunny, thirty degrees.

■ Take an umbrella today.

○ But there are no clouds at all. No wind either.

■ Suea is staying inside. That means rain.

○ Is Suea your weather forecast?

■ Exactly. He is right almost every time.

○ Thank you, but I do not need an umbrella today.

■ As you wish.

Outside, On is putting the café tables out on the pavement.

▲ Good morning. It's hot today, isn't it?

○ Yes. Even so, Grandma Somporn told me to take an umbrella.

▲ Grandma Somporn is always right. Well, almost always.

▲ Where is Suea? He isn't at the window at all.

○ He is staying at home today.

▲ Oh, then you need an umbrella.

Suea sits on the windowsill, perfectly dry, looking at the sky.

Half past five. You come home soaked to the skin. Grandma Somporn is already at the door with a towel.

○ You were right, Grandma Somporn. It's raining now. I'm completely wet.

■ I can see that. Here's a towel.

○ Thank you. Tomorrow I'll take an umbrella.

■ Not tomorrow. It'll be sunny.

○ How do you know?

■ Suea.

You don't take it. At half past five you come home soaked, and she is at the door with a towel. "I know." Tomorrow: sun, says ลีอ. Next morning you take the umbrella, and the sun shines. ลีอ follows you all the way to the office.
