Translation

Later that morning, at the office. Your bag sits on the new desk and looks heavy.

- Good morning. What have you got in that heavy bag?

The cat jumps out onto the desk. Herr Kühn jumps onto his chair.

- A tomcat! Not again!

- Sorry. I know you are afraid of cats.

- Please put him back in the bag. And keep your distance!

- Where is he now?

Still on his chair, he points two ways at once. Mikesch peeks from behind the screen and is already heading for the printer.

- Behind the computer! In front of the printer! Now on the table!

- Mikesch, come here. And stay away from the printer!

- He is not coming. We have another meeting today at eleven.

Mikesch races across the floor with the computer mouse in his mouth, the cable trailing. Herr Kühn reaches after him from his chair.

- My mouse!

○ Not that mouse, Mikesch!

Herr Kühn sits on his chair again and looks down. Mikesch sits at his feet, proud, and has dropped the mouse there like a present.

○ Look, Mr Kühn. He is bringing you a present.

■ A present? Thank you ...

○ Mikesch says: you are welcome.

■ Please give me paper and a pen.

○ What for?

■ For the rules. Even an office cat needs rules.

Mikesch runs off with Thomas's computer mouse, and comes back, and drops it at his feet like a present. For the first time, Thomas does not scream. "...Thank you?" Then he asks for paper and a pen: the cat needs rules.
