Translation

■ Wet again?

○ There was a storm at the market. My clothes are completely wet. My shoes too.

■ And your umbrella?

○ At the office. The sun was shining this morning.

■ The sun does not stay all day.

■ And the yellow jacket?

○ Wet too. It is warm, but not waterproof.

■ Then you need a raincoat. For our April weather.

On the landing, Frau Brandt holds out an old dark-green raincoat with both hands.

■ Wait here.

■ My raincoat. Green, old, but still good. Put it on.

○ Dry. And nice and warm.

■ It suits you. Better than the yellow jacket.

○ Thank you. How old is it?

■ Forty years. Older than you!

○ There is something in the pocket. A key. Quite heavy.

*In her hand, a heavy old key with a worn paper tag on a string.
She looks at you over her glasses.*

○ It says attic here. Is this the key to the attic?

■ Yes. Keep it.

○ Me? Why?

■ You are part of number seven now.

○ And what is up there?

■ Old things. Very many old things.

○ Achoo!

■ Off to bed. I will make you tea.

○ But the rehearsal is tomorrow.

■ You do not have to come tomorrow. You had better stay in bed.

○ Yes, Mrs Brandt.

■ Right. Tea first.

*Hilde brings an old green raincoat from the cupboard. "My old raincoat. Put it on. It suits you." In the pocket is a heavy old key with a label: "Attic". "Keep it. You are one of number 7 now."
You sneeze. In bed with your tea, you see Mikesch sitting by the key, staring at it for a long time.*
